What Shall We Eat

To Keep Healthy and Strong?

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats is undoubtedly the best, in spite of the claims made by vegetarians and food cranks generally.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables or grains.

Dr. Julius Remuson on this subject says: Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat plenty of meat.

If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily strengthened by the regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

Two of these excellent tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousand grains of meat, eggs or other animal food in three or four hours, while the malt diastase also contained in Stuart's Tablets cause the perfect digestion of starchy foods like potatoes, bread, etc., and no matter how weak the stomach may be no trouble will be experienced if a regular practice is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply the pepsin and diastase so necessary to perfect digestion, and any form of indigestion and stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach will be overcome by their daily use.

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspeptics should eat plenty of meat and insure its complete digestion by the systematic use of a safe, harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natural digestive principles, pepsin and diastase, which actually perform the work of digestion and give the abused stomach a chance to rest and to furnish the body and brain with the necessary nutriment. Cheap cathartic medicines masquerading under the name of dyspepsia cures are useless for relief or cure of indigestion, because they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food and the only sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the indigestion is to make daily use at meal time of a safe preparation which is endorsed by the medical profession and known to contain active digestive principles, and all this can truly be said of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

All druggists throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain sell them at the uniform price of fifty cents for full treatment.

Special to the Register. PITTSBURG, Pa., October 1.—Another big deal in oil production property was consummated in this city to-day. The amount of money involved in the trade makes it one of the largest transactions of the year. The property sold, with the exception of two wells in Allegheny county, lies in the Jackson Ridge, Moose Ridge and Graysville pools in Monroe county, and was owned by the Ann Oil Company. The purchase was by Harry J. Parker and the consideration was $250,000. The property consists of leases on about twenty farms in Monroe county, on which are sixty producing oil wells and five gas wells. The net daily production from all wells is 219 barrels, which would make the purchasing price a little less than $784 a barrel.

It is Big Injun and Keener sand territory and all other production. There is still room for about 50 wells on the property. The Ann Oil Company, owned by T. N. Barnsdall, W. J. Burke, John Newell and A. W. Lewis, began operating the property three years ago and since then it has more than paid back the money invested. Including operating expenses and leaving the purchase money received a profit to the promoters, Harry J. Parker, the purchaser, is a young and well known operator and producer, also an extensive oil well contractor in the lower southeast. The Ann Oil Company will retain its identity, having some valuable holdings in Monroe and Allegheny counties not included in the sale. It is rather a coincidence that all the sales of any magnitude
